The Columbia Journal of Literary Criticism is seeking pitches and essays for its 2022 issue to be published in the spring. Writers should either be current undergraduates or recent graduates submitting undergraduate work.

Founded in 2002, CJLC acts as an interdisciplinary, undergraduate forum centered around literature, culture, and politics. The journal is published once annually and includes articles, reviews, interviews, and original artwork. CJLC attempts to examine the world around us in a way that is informed by academic thought but not subsumed by it.

Submission guidelines:

Pitches: Please email submittocjlc@gmail.com with an outline of your article and a proposed/provisional bibliography. Please include your name, university and year of graduation. If we like the pitch, we’ll contact you to set a deadline and work with you throughout the writing process.

Essays: You are welcome to submit an article, or essay to be converted into an article, to the same address. Please attach your essay as a word document, and include your name, university, and year of graduation in the body of the email. You are welcome to submit an essay from a previous course, granted that the essay or an adaptation has not been published elsewhere.

Submissions are due January 1st, 2022, but you are very welcome to submit earlier.

Before submitting, please take a look at our past issues to get a sense for what we publish: http://c-jlc.org/archive/