Clio's Scroll – Call for Submissions – Deadline Thursday, March 3rd, 2022 at 11:59 pm

Dear Undergraduates,

The Undergraduate History Journal Clio's Scroll is now accepting submissions for its Fall 2021 edition. Founded in 1981, Clio's Scroll is one of UC Berkeley's oldest and best-recognized publications. For 40 years, Clio's Scroll has produced over 30 issues covering a diverse array of historical time periods and themes. The editorial staff is looking for incisive and thoughtfully structured historical research papers written by undergraduates at any college, in and outside of the United States.

Submissions may include papers you have already written for an undergraduate course. Papers from all history courses and historical areas of focus are welcome, especially senior theses. Papers from other disciplines are welcome, so long as they are historical in nature.

Our most recent edition can be found on our website here.

Submission guidelines:

- In Word format.
- In 12 point Times New Roman font with 2.0 line spacing, and 1.15 footnote spacing
- Cleared of all mentions of the author's name.
- Accompanied by a cover page that includes the title of your essay, and "Clio's Scroll submission (Fall/Spring YYYY)."
- Your email should include your name, year, major(s), and your university name.
- It should be between 15-50 pages.
- Including an abstract (100-150 words) as well as up to five keywords that summarize the main content/argument of the article to assist editors in the review process

More detailed submission guidelines can be found here.

Submissions must be sent to cliosscroll@gmail.com no later than Saturday, March 3rd at 11:59 pm
