Vanderbilt Historical Review

We are excited to announce our call for submissions is now open. This year, we are publishing a special issue for the first time. This special issue calls for substantive articles and book reviews that concern feminism. The gains in gender equity drawn back by the pandemic and the threat on reproductive rights from the recent overturning of Roe v. Wade have brought questions about the state of the feminist movement for equality to the forefront of cultural and political discourse, and we feel it is more important now than ever to share, promote, and learn feminist histories.

Our first special welcomes submissions that discuss feminism from all time periods and geographic locations. The due date is December 15th, 2022. Substantive articles should be submitted using this link, https://forms.gle/HvY33X3nPdsVxWRk8. For more information please visit, vanderbilthistoricalreview.com or email our Editor in Chief, davi.a.lennon@vanderbilt.edu.

Gratefully,
Vanderbilt Historical Review
--
Desiree S. Hagg (she/her)
Vanderbilt University 2023
Majors | Clarinet & European History
Minor | Psychology