

J-TERM EVENTS AT HOUGHTON LIBRARY

Now is not the winter of your discontent! Make the most of your January break at Houghton Library, which will offer four presentations and workshops designed to introduce graduate students to the examination of books as cultural objects. These classes will enhance understanding in any field of study as students learn to “read” a book for evidence of its production, context, cultural value, and the experience of its readers through time.

Thursday, January 14, 2016

2-4 pm

Hands-on Letterpress Printing
Workshop

Tuesday, January 19, 2016

2-4 pm

Graphic Techniques

Thursday, January 21, 2016

1-3pm

Introduction to Analytical Bibliography

Friday, January 22, 2016

10-12 pm

Shakespeare and His First Folio in Context

*Image: Woodcut device of Parisian printer Badius Ascensius. Flavius Josephus. De bello Judaico (Paris, 1510). *IC5.C8625.B511d. Houghton Library, Harvard University. Morgan fund, 1989.*

Space is limited so register now at the January@GSAS website:

<https://www.gsas.harvard.edu/january>