

THE '68 YEARS AND THE "WIND FROM THE WEST"

A talk by Kristin Ross (NYU) that re-evaluates the French and global '60s in the light of contemporary territorial and land-based struggles like the zad (zone à défendre) at Notre-Dame-des Landes. Ross argues that '68 was a movement that began in the cities whose intelligence and future leads to the earth/Earth.

THURSDAY, MARCH 8
5 PM, WILLIAM JAMES HALL 105

In other words:

De boue,
les damnés de la terre.

Generously sponsored by the Provostial Fund for the Arts and Humanities and the Departments of Romance Languages and Literatures and History