MARIE- AMÉLIE GEORGE

BERGER-HOWE FELLOW
IN LEGAL HISTORY
AT HLS

Marie-Amélie George is the Berger-Howe Fellow in Legal History at Harvard Law School and a PhD candidate in History at Yale University. Her dissertation project, entitled “Deviant Justice: The Transformation of Gay and Lesbian Rights in America,” analyzes how American law moved from a regime that criminalized consensual sodomy in all fifty states in 1960 to one in which gays and lesbians have a fundamental right to marry in 2015.
